JOYCE'S MEN OUTRAT THE CHICAGOS

Cincinnatis End the Brooklyn Series with a Victory-Bostons Win Twice and Tie the Reds-Two Victories and Third Place for Baltimore-Other Western Tenms Win With two runs scored by each team the umpire called the game between the New Yorks and Chicagos at the Polo Grounds yesterday after ten innings. The fourteenth and last game of the season between the Brooklyns and Cincinnatis, played at Washington Park, proved easy for the Reds, who shut out the home team. In the meantime, however, the Bostons walloped the Clevelands twice in succession, and the Hub players and Ewing's men are now tied for first place. A double defeat for the Cleve-lands was the means of advancing the Baltimores, who beat the Pittsburgs twice, to third place. The games at Philadelphia and Washington were won by the St. Louis and Louisville teams respectively. The results:

NEW YORK, 2; CHICAGO, 2.

When the Chicago players and their manager Thomas Burns, left for Boston last night they were still saying unpleasant things about As istant Umpire Hunt, who officiated with Umpire Emslie at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The wrath of the Chicagos was stirred up to its highest boiling point in the seventh inning. Doyle had made a hit as a starter in New York's half and one run was needed to tie the score. haif and one run was needed to die the score.

Hartman, instead of bunting, banged a fly to Chance and was out. Then Griffith, with a sudden turn, caught Doyle in the act of leaving first base for a steal. He ran over toward the base line, still holding the ball, while Doyle stood waiting to be run down.

"Balk! It's a balk!" yelled Joyce and some gurst base for a steal. He ran over toward the base line, still holding the ball, while Doyle stood waiting to be run down.

"Balk! It's a balk!" yelled Joyce and-some of his players.

"He made a motion to pitch!" howled Warner, who was at the bat.

Hunt, who had run down to second base, looked appealingly to Emisle, whose power it was to declare a balk, and as he did so Doyle made a break for second. Griffith threw the ball to Dahlen then, and the latter clearly touched Doyle at least three yards from second base, even though Jack ran out of the line in an effort to avoid the Chicago captain.

"He's out!" screamed all of the Chicago players. Hunt, however, waited to hear what Emsile had to say, and when the latter declared that Griffith had not made a balk Hunt promptly said that Doyle was "safe" at second. Thereupon the whole Chicago team sank to the ground. They didn't rush at the assistant umpire with elenched flats, but merely tumbled headlong to the green turf, where they remained motionless for several minutes. Then they came to life and made things miserable for Hunt, who threatened to put half of them out of the game. But when they laughed at him he walked away.

The game was resumed finally with the crowd in had humor, for the delay, which was the crowning point of a series of similar instances, had disgusted everybody. Warner hit affy to Chance just as Doyle stole third. Jack had to hustle back to second, and reached it as Chance was in the act of making a muff. sermour followed with a single and Doyle tled the score. As he crossed the plate the Chicagos showed their teeth again.

Dilatory tactics, kicking, blundering baserunning and poor fleiding were the leading jeatures of the struggle, which was anything put a model exhibition of the national game. Umpire Emsile did his best to hurry the game along, but the players took, their time. It was twenty minutes after 6 o'clock when the tanthing ended, and though it was still light enough to go on. Emsile called the game on account of darkness, the score made a moment later. As Donahue struck out, Warner threw to Joyes, who reached after Connor as the latter was in the act of getting back to the base. Hunt said Connor was out and some of the crowd in the bleachers yelled "Safe!" This encouraged the visitors to make a roar that lasted until they got tired.

"We are being robbed!" shouted Catcher Donahue to the people in the grand stand. Beymour filled the bags in the third with bases on balls, and Griffith ted these or on a long fiy. In the sixth inning the New Yorks, who had been remarkably peaceful, broke loose. With one out Connor singled, and when Emslie said Donahue was entitled to a base on balls there was a derisive yell from all of the New York infolders, while Beymour turned a couple of handsprings on the grass.

"Oh, you robber! I'd like to punch your head!" shrieked a man with a pointed beard who sat behind the press box. Umpire Emslie turned around to locate the fellow and have him ejected, but he got away. Just then a man and a boy got into a rough-and-tumble fight on the bleachers.

"Throw him out!" the crowd shouted. Four policemen charged galantly over the low rail, grabbed the boy by the neck and ran him

"Throw him out!" the crowd shouted. Four policemen charged galiantly over the low rail, grabbed the boy by the neck and ran him out of the grounds. The man bought a bag of peanuts and remained. Seymour meanwhile had thrown wildly to second, and the two runpers moved up. Griffith tapped the ball to Davis, and it looked like an easy job to catch Connor at the plate. Davis, however, fumbled the ball, and also made another blunder by throwing wildly to Joyce. Chance followed with a hit, but Everitt retired the side with a fly to Joyce. In the seventh occurred the mixup between Hunt and the Chicagos, as described above. The score:

CINCINNATI. 8; BROOKLYK, O.

Pink Hawley was in great form at Washington Park yesterday and the Brocklyns failed to score. In six of the nine innings the home team falled to get a man beyond first base. Several runs were looked for in the first inning, when the home team had three men on the bases and no one out. Scheckard's liner to Irwin resulted in a double play, and, after Hawloy had again filled the bases by sending Magoon to first on balls. Lachance ended the inning by flying out to Miller. The same player had another opportunity, with two men on the bases in the third inning, but he again sent his team to the field, his bounder being easy for McPhee. While McKenna was not hit hard, the ex-Brockton pitchor lacked control, and his style of delivery just suited the Reds when sacrifice hits were needed, for the visitors had more than the usual success in bunting to the infielders. Chenille, by a length and a half from Collateral, who beat the odds-on favorite, Lennep, by a head. Maker's followers then burned their fingers badly. They backed Maximo Gomen to odds on, but Mike Clancy's gelding was leaten two lengths by Longacre, on whom Moody rode a patient race. Songer on Charagrace and O'Leary on Gun Metal behaved badly at the post and were fined $15 each.

The Maher contingent never weakened, but freely accepted 11 to 10 against Leando instead. They were lucky in cashing, as the majority thought Tennith had won, so close was the finish. Leando, Tennith and The Gardner were only heads apart at the line. Tut Tut helped Sloan's rival to his third win of the day. The filly ruled a warm favorite in the field of eleven youngsters, but ahe had to be urged to her limit to win by a neck from St. Clair, the second choice. Decide and Taranto were best supported in the last race of the day, but they had to be content with the smaller ends of the purse, as Bossifer, at 8 to 1. won easily by three lengths. Little O'Connor spoiled several starts trying to steal away with Commercial Traveller, and he was set down for two days. Summary;

REPAIR WORK A PROMINENT NEATURE IN THE DICYCLE BUSINESS.

Peculiar Explanations by Riders When Wheel Is Damaged - Incident of the National Meet at Indianapolis - A Hotel Reeper's Experience with Lengue Men. Repair work has become a prominent feature in the hierela business, and this is noteworthy because formerly under the long-term guarantees the repair shop was an expensiva adjunct to the bicycle store." It was a local dealer, who should know, who said this to a reporter of THE SUR, and he continued, even more interestedly:

When the manufacturers guaranteed wheels for a year our customers kept us busy with lit-tle jobs that we had to do gratis. The buyer always looks to the dealer to make good the guarantee, and although the poor retailer is not really responsible, he finds it best to do the job and keep the customer instead of making him ship the wheel or the broken part to the factory. Now, with a sixty days' guarantee, the repair shop is a profitable part of the estabishment. Riders bring in their wheels, and instead of beginning to scold they ask, 'How much?' Oh, for those days when they came in with a wheel all smashed up and declared that nothing had happened to it, and de-manded to have it fixed under the guarantee! We have some such customers now, but noth-ing like the number we used to have. I was beginning to think that among eyelists lying was a lost art until a woman brought to me a mashed rental wheel a few days ago. Some of the stories we had to swallow because we could not disprove them would have made Munchausen blush. It was quite common for a man to come in with a bent crank or a bent handlebar and insist that he had not had any accident, and that the part was bent when he got the wheel, or had become bent in ordinary usage. Once in a while I had a man come in with his front wheel smashed and all the spokes either broken or twisted, and insist that it had happened while he was riding slowly along a evel road.

"The worst case I ever had was that of a New York bartender who hired a wheel of me and tarted from Fifty-eighth street and Broadway for a ride to Coner Island. He had a friend with him and they were gone all day. When they returned at night, one of the pedals on the bartender's wheel was missing. I called his attention to it and said that I would have to deduct the cost of a new pedal from the $5 deposit he had left with me. He feigned surprise at the pedal being gone and declared that the wheel was just the same as it was when he took it from the place. I asked him if he had ridden to Coney Island and back with one pedal and he said: Guess I must. I didn't miss it. I'm not an experienced rider, you see. All I know is that I have not lost any pedal and that the wheel is just the same as when I got it.' Hooked at him for a moment, but I couldn't say a word. He and his friend both looked solemn. Finally I concluded to give him his $5 and not charge him for the pedal. Listening to a lie like that was worth the price of a second-hand pedal. The woman I mentioned, who spoiled my dream about romance in the business being dead, hired a wheel from me last week and brought it back with the forks hadly bent backward and a couple of spokes snapped. She declared that she had not met with any accident. She was a regular customer and after a few words with her I said 'all right' and made up my mind to pooket the damages. She had hardly got out of the store when one of my instructors, who had been out for a ride, came in and asked if Mrs. — had returned. He said that she must have a damaged wheel, as he had seen her on the road trying to make the bloycle climb a tree, and the front wheel when it struck jumped as if it was going right on up. I wrote the woman a letter telling her of this report, and inclosed abill for repairs. She came to my store with her lawyer. She readily admitted that she had run into a tree, but made a great show of indignation and insisted that such an occurrence should be tough to be alled an accident, because any wheel that would not stand such treatmenthad no business to be hired out. She was perfectly wave in answering affirmati for a ride to Coney Island. He had a friend with him and they were gone all day. When lawyer advised her to pay and she did so, but lost her patronage. Since then 'been climbin a tree' has been a pet expression in the sto every time a broken wheel comes in."

An incident indicative of the situation at Indianapolis last week, as told by an amateur racing man who witnessed it, is in relation to himself and another who entered the cafe of a hotel, the proprietor of which had contributed $1,000 to the fund for bringing the L. A. W. members to the city. They wore the official emblems of League members. After getting some refreahment they went to the deak to pay, and the proprietor happened to be there. He promptly refused to accept any money, saying: You are the first League members I have seen. I am only too glad to have you in the place. Have another drink." They did, and then this good-natured hotel man insisted that they should have some high-priced cigars at his expense before leaving. He was very pleasant about it, and said that he would always be their friend because they had saved him from being "skunked."

A member of the L. A. W., who attended the big meet last week and returned to this city yesterday, in speaking of the small attendance at Indianapolis, said:

"Every year the national meet has to draw more and more from the local population, the cities, and towns nearest to it. When the League was younger and smaller nearly every one knew each other, and in order to be at the reunion men would travel half way across the continent—yes, from coast to coast. They do not do this nowadays. Last year there was a big crowd at the meet because Philadelphia is a big city and in a thickly nopulated section. Where the Quaker City had millions to draw from, Indianapolis had only thousands. Another thing, Indianapolis has not the attractions of other cities. It has nice parks and roads and all that, but no Mammoth Cave or Pike's Peak or ocean front or any of the things that bring people from sfar. At Buffalo those who attend the meet could go to Niagara Falls. If it were at Bosion there are a thousand historic points nearby to be visited. If at New York, hundreds from the West would make it an excuse to get here and see Coney Island and other things they have heard about. To my mind the one thing that the Indianapolis meet demonstrated was the need for two meets every year, one East and the other West."

NEW YORK ORTS OFF EAST.

The Club to Pay Baltimore $1,000 Only and the Latter Must Suspend Holmes. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15 .- "Ducky" Holmes guilty. The Philadelphia Club has no ease against the New York Club in the matter of the alleged sale of Jack Boyle for $1,000. Such are the findings to-day of the Board of Directors of the National League, composed ! Mesars. Muckenfuss of St. Louis. W kins of Pittsburg, H. C. Pulliam of Louisville, J. E. Wagner of Washington, S. Vonderhorst of Baltimore and A. J. Reach of Philadelphia. Of course, in the questions in which they were directly interested Beach and Vonderhorst did not vote. In the Boyle case the board

ocides:

"The Philadelphia Club failed to comply with the conditions of the offer made by the New fork Club for the services of Jack Boyle, there-ty failing to complete a contract, and the Chiladelphia Club has no right to receive any correspondition."

by failing to complete a contract, and the Fulladelphia Club has no right to receive any compensation."

The offer made by New York was contained in a telegram from President Freedman to Col. John I. Rogers, offering $1,000 for Boyle's release, providing that he was in good health. On the receipt of this telegram, Col. Rogers sought Dr. Bogert to make sure that Boyle was in good health. Receiving assurances that he was, the Colonel wired Freedman to the effect that his offer had been accepted and that Boyle would report as per instructions. In the meanwhile Freedman had got rid of Anson and reinstalled Joyce as manager of the New Yorks. Within an hour or so after Col. Rogers had wired his acceptance of Freedman's offer there came another telegram from New York repudiating the offer on the ground that inasmuch as Boyle had failed to appear he Freedman had changed his mind, and that he did not want Boyle. Col. Rogers maintained that his acceptance of Freedman's proposition by wire consummated the deal, but the Board decreed otherwise.

acceptance of Freedman's proposition by wire consummated the deal, but the Board decreed otherwise.

The board's decision in the case of the Baltimore Club against New York is that the New York Club is ordered to turn over to President Young a check for $1,000, to be held by him until Oct. 15, when it shall be turned over to the Baltimore Club, provided that the latter club shall, within ten days of Aug. 15, suspend "Ducky" Holmes for the balance of the playing season of 1898. It is also stipulated that the $1,000 is in lieu of any demand Baltimore may make for its share of the gate receipts in the game in which the rumpus occurred. As that club's share of the gate receipts of July 25 amounted to something like $485, it will be seen that the organization will profit only to the extent of $515, instead of $1,000 as provided for in the rules. But as an offset to this the Baltimores must, after Aug. 25, do without the services of Holmes for the balance of the season or forfeit its right to the sl.000. President Vonderhorst said after "The whole thing is a straddle pure and sim-the $1,000. President vonderhorst said after the meeting:

"The whole thing is a straddle pure and simple. I do not know what I will do. I shall sleep over it, and then decide in the morning."

In the present crippled condition of the Baltmore Club the enforced retirement of Holmes would be a severs loss. Col. Rogers was visibly irritated by the board's action, and declared that the verdict was reached not by evidence, but by policy.

years. Address A. J. Hagan, 211 McDougall street, Brooklyn.

Brooklyn recters cannot understand why Alex Smith is not allowed to take his regular turn behind the bat. President Ebbets said yesterday the reason Grim and Ryan get the preference is that they understand the weak points of the opposing batters more than Smith.

No fault can be found with the fielding of Magoon. Considering that the latter player had been covering third base for the Brockton Glub, he has more than some up to expectations as a shortstop. Magoon, however, is not a heavy hitter, but President Ebbets is hopeful that he will improve in his stickwork.

The Brocklyn Heights Field Club has Ang. 20, 21, 28, Sept. 3, 4, 17 and 25 open, and would like to fill the same with first-class teams, in or out of town, offering suitable guarantees. NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 15.-All day to-day players have been arriving for the seventeenth annual tournament of the National Croquet Association of America, which opens on the grounds of the Norwich Croquet Club to-morrow. Among the well-known players who will ompete this year are Sackett C. Duryea and William H. Wahley of Washington, the former the present national champion; ex-Champion George C. Strong, Frank Sisson, A. P. Grint N. Davenport of Northampton, Mass.; W. Holt Angard of Trenton; Earl C. and Dale D. Butler of Middletown, Conn.; E. M. Baldwin of Dan-of Middletown, Conn.; E. M. Baldwin of Danbury, Conn.; Charles H. Edmonds of Philadelphia, Samuel Cresby of New York, I. C. Reeder of Cleveland, O., and N. I. Bishop, Charles T. Bard, William H. Congdon and James L. Case of Norwich.

The grounds have been put in better condition this summer than for several years, and the eight courts that will be used for play are all as smooth as a billiard table. The entry list this year is larger than ever before, and some of the best players in the country have already arrived at the grounds. It is expected that the tournament whiceose on Friday night. In the race for the championship the favorite is Duryes, the present champion, with Wahley a close second. Edgeworth Bird of Baltimore, the boy player, who was regarded as the couning champion, died a few weeks ago at his home in Baltimore. He had intended to enter the tournament this year.

FIGHTING.

Bonner Whips Goff in the Eighteenth Round at Coney Island.

The 3.000 who went to see Dan Creedon meet Jack Bonner, the stocky-built Philadelphia niddleweight, at the Greater New York A. C., Coney Island, last night were disappointed, for at the last moment Charley Goff, Billy Madden's new "find," was substituted. It was announced hat Creedon was too ill to fight, but according to the club's physician, who examined him, he was reported to be in good shape. Creedon on his own behalf appeared in the ring and told the crowd that he was sick and couldn't fight. He looked well, and the sports giggled in a meaning sort of way. However, Creedon was not apparently very much missed, for Goff, although defeated in the eighteenth round, gave a great exhibition. The men were to have battled twentylva rounds at 158 pounds. Bonner, however, was fully eight pounds heavier than his rival. Goff's showing was commendable, and he was loudly applauded when the fray was over. Eugene Rowan of Philadelphia and Jack Burge of Mount Vernon, at 128 pounds for twelve rounds, furnished the preliminary tilt, seived the decision for doing the best work. Goff and Bonner were in their corners as 11:15 o'clock. Bonner had behind him Johnny Gorman, Billy Roache, "Mysterious Billy" Smith, and Bob Dillon. Goff's seconds were Billy Madden, Gus Ruhlin, Jimmy Curran of England, and Jack McAuliffe. The men agreed to hit with one arm free and no hitting on the breakaway.

Bonner seemed anxious at the start, and Bonner seemed anxious at the start, and tried to whip over his right on Goff's jaw, but Goff was shifty and kept out of harm's way. Goff, who had the better of the reach, allowed Bonner to do most of the leading. Goff just stuck out his left and landed with good effect. Bonner swung his left in desperation in the second and barely landed on Goff's jaw. Bonner jumped nimbly back and then jabbed Goff in the wind.

Bonner was on the aggressive in the third. He kept Goff busy guarding both lefts and rights. Charley easily held his own, and Bonner seemed chagrined over his inability to land with effect.

ner seemed chagined over his hability to have with effect.

Bonner continued to force matters in the fourth. He found Goff quite willing, though, and had all he could do to avoid Charley's provoking jabs. Goff ran into a terrific smash on the neck and reeled. He only held his feet by good generalship. Goff recovered immediately and landed twice on Bonner's nose.

Bonner started the gore in the fifth, but received a smart one on the mouth for his pains, Goff kept up his attack on Bonner's face. Goff nearly upset Bonner with a hard poke on the eye. Goff took a lot of punishment in the sixth.

Bonner's blows were delivered with force, Bonner did all the leading in the seventh, but his efforts were invariably frustrated. Bonner had himself open quite often in the eighth, but Goff was equal to the occasion.

Bonner gave it to Goff unmercifully in the ninth. He aimost closed Charley's left eyes with a right-hand smash. Still Goff never wavered and the crowd marvelled at his gameless.
